DETAILED ACTION

1. This is response to the Terminal Disclaimer filed on February 03, 2006.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1-4 and 11-14 are allowed and renumbered as 1-8.

Reason for Allowance

3. The present invention related to a virtual display device using motorized camera mount, and using the computer to obtain information from the camera mount to control the aim of the camera and superimpose computer generated graphics onto the real view taken by the camera.

The sole independent claim identifies the uniquely distinct features “determining at least the orientation of the camera by using a computer to obtain information from the motorized camera mount;

in response to at least the camera orientation received by the computer from the motorized camera mount, using the computer to control the aim of the camera by sending control signals to the motorized camera mount to move the camera to a specified orientation, wherein the control signals cause the motorized camera mount to move the camera to the specified orientation, to thus accomplish a feedback-based camera position control system;

in response to the camera orientation received by the computer from the motorized camera mount and in response to the obtained imaging parameters, using the computer to render a graphical image representing unseen information that corresponds to the known orientation of the camera viewpoint, wherein the unseen information is rendered such that it is visually consistent with the obtained imaging parameters and the orientation of the camera”.

The closest prior art of Ellenby et al. (U. S. Patent No. 5,815,441) Masunaga et al. (U.S Patent No. 5,838,368) and Bolle et al. (U.S Patent No. 6,301,440) show similar systems, but either singularly or in combination, fail to anticipate or render above quoted limitations obvious.

4. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
